- (work in any of the above mediums is acceptable, but wildlife conservation and management must be the primary subject.)

In categories 1-5, the traditional outdoor sports must be the focus.

Contestants are allowed two entries per category for a maximum of 16. Entries in excess of two per category per contestant will be disqualified. You do not need to remove your name from submissions. Coentries must include the name of both contributors and will count toward the maximum for both contestants. Additions/ changes to awards will not be made after judging has been finalized.

Multi-part submissions cannot be counted as one entry. Two-part articles/ broadcasts, etc. must be submitted as two separate entries.

POMA Media Members in good standing may enter. If an individual media member who is employed by a current Corporate Partner enters, the individual is recognized, not the company.

Submissions previously entered are not eligible.

All submissions require works to have been published (publication date), broadcast (aired date) or exhibited for payment between Nov. 1, 2022 and Oct. 31, 2023.

Book entries (excluding ebooks) must be delivered by mail. Three copies are required. These can be sent directly from the publisher to POMA, if desired. Please see mailing instructions below. Member may submit entry form via email and indi-
